Assistant Commissioner Fisk, of the Freed- JULIUS WINTER, men's Bureau, now at Nashville, writes thus: Rebels returning from their disbanded armies openly avow their intention to re-establish slavery after the Federal forces are withdrawn from Tennessee. No attempt is made by the white people to assure the black people that slavery is C. M. METCALF, abolished, and as a consequence the colored people in large numbers have left and are leaving their employers, and the latter made complaints GRORGE D. PRENTICE, to the Commission that the negroes would not fulfill their contracts for labor. Gen. Fisk attended a convention of 4,000 colored people where the subject of emancipation was discussed, and he assured the blacks that their freedom was beyond doubt. The negroes were thus inspired with confidence that they will not be again made slaves, and promised to return to their late employers and resume labor.
